

To Whom It May Concern:

I am pleased to recommend Ana Cascante, who stood out remarkably during the Java and Testing with Selenium course in which I was an instructor.

Throughout the course, Ana made the most of every lesson, demonstrating an excellent attitude, commitment, and a strong eagerness to learn.

She excelled in the course with outstanding results, achieving top performance in all evaluations and proving to be fully prepared to take on new projects in the field of software development.

Ana showed great dedication to the project, efficiently solving any challenges and successfully meeting the objectives set.

In addition to her technical skills, Ana possesses a proactive attitude and a strong willingness to collaborate in a team, contributing positively to any professional environment. These qualities, along with her ability to learn quickly and adapt to new challenges, make her a professional with great potential.

I am confident that Ana will be a valuable incorporation to any project or team, given her abilities, willingness to learn, exceptional dedication and hard work.

Sincerely,

María del Olmo Hernández – Full Stack Developer and Instructor at Certidevs
